Hi. I'm a tree. Now, lots of you folks think all we trees do is just stand around and soak up the sun. Have a little drink of water and talk with the little birdies. But a tree also faces a lot of danger. Like if I don't get enough sunlight, I'll be like this. Or if it's really cold, I can get bitten by old Jack Frost. Ouch. And then there's those pesky little insects. They can chew me to pieces. And the wind can break off one of my limbs.

But the worst danger I face is fire because fire can burn me up. So, please think before you strike. Be careful with fire. Everybody wants to live a long time, even a tree.
